MULTI COMPLIANCE AUDIT

COMBINED AUDIT FOR EFFICIENT COMPLIANCE

If anything, we at Audittrail know how to perform an audit. Our auditors have extensive experience auditing organizations on privacy, information security, and quality. We perform audits – among others - on the GDPR, ISO 27001/2, ISO9001, or take your internal standards to create and perform an objective third-party audit.

WHY IS IT IMPORTANT

You can spend a lot of money on compliance measures, yet without measuring their effectiveness you never really know the impact. By auditing your current level of compliance, you identify both your strong and weak links. Through our objective auditing method, we make sure you do not skip any essentials, and that you can invest in compliance-measures that actually contribute to your level of compliance. By combining your compliance audit for different fields, you identify patterns in compliance, and can tackle overlapping compliance challenges. Moreover, combining two audits can reduce the total costs of the audit cycle. Also, a combined audit typically has lesser impact on the organization in terms of time spent on the audit by employees.

Beside conversations with key-roles, we also assess standard documentation and systems to determine your maturity level. After the audit we discuss the outcome with you and provide suggestions for an improvement-cycle. If you desire, we can present the outcome of the audit to the board.

BENEFITS

- Insight into current level of multi compliance;
- Combined audit;
- Constructive suggestions for continuous improvement;
- Conversation style-auditing instead of checklists.

HOW DO WE SOLVE THIS?

Whereas ISO norms have standardized auditing guidelines, we have created a specific auditing framework for the GDPR. If necessary, Audittrail will translate internal organizational standards into an objective auditing framework. We have constructive conversations with key-players in your organization and through this assess your current level of compliance. We take all relevant legislation and standards into account when auditing your organization.
